

Set Yourself Apart by Becoming a Nacha Certified Third-Party Sender.

What does it mean to be Nacha Certified?

Nacha Certified is a voluntary program that will enable your company to differentiate itself among Third-Party Senders.

By achieving Nacha Certified status you'll be showing your customers, financial institutions and peers that you meet Nacha's standards for sound core practices in ACH payment processing.

What does it take?

All Third-Party Senders that have been in payments processing for at least two years are eligible to become Nacha Certified. You'll have to show Nacha that you meet certification standards that signal strong core practices and corporate governance.

It's a rigorous process, but not burdensome. In fact, it's probably easier than you think. And Nacha is there to help every step of the way.

What are the benefits?

High-quality Third-Party Senders are key participants in the modern ACH Network. Are you a Third-Party Sender with effective oversight of your business? Do you understand the risk and compliance obligations associated with processing ACH transactions?

Show that you are a valuable business partner. Become Nacha Certified. Banks and credit unions know Nacha. And they recognize and respect Nacha Certified. You'll be able to proudly display the Nacha Certified logo, and your customers and partners will be able to verify your certification online through Nacha.

They're Nacha Certified:

Shouldn't your logo be here?

By meeting the criteria of being 'Nacha Certified' we distinguish ourselves from our competition and provide our customers the confidence in knowing they are receiving the highest quality of service.

> Adam Ante, Chief Financial Officer, Paycor

Let's Talk

Call Jordan Bennett at 703-561-3968 to learn more about becoming a Nacha Certified Third-Party Sender.

See the criteria at nachacertified.org

